

The Application of the Articles in the Multilateral Convention to HK's Tax Treaties

Scope of notifications

The purpose for a contracting jurisdiction (i.e. Hong Kong) to make notification to the OECD Depository is twofold: to ensure clarity and transparency about the application of the MLI; and acquire the legal validity of the action taken. In addition to the notification for the nomination of CTAs at the signing day of the Multilateral Convention (the MLI), notification can be categorized as follows:

- The notification made for reservations not to apply the provisions in the article of the MLI to the CTAs that already contain MLI-compatible or BEPS-compliant provisions;
- The notification of article provisions that are described under the compatibility clause and are not subject to a reservation; or
- The notification made for optional provisions or alternative provisions.

Notifications and Compatibility Clauses

To achieve clarity and transparency about the modifications made by the MLI to the CTAs, the contracting jurisdictions are required to notify how the compatibility clause modifies a treaty provision in ways as set out below:

- a) The MLI provision applies “in place of” an existing provision of a Covered Tax Agreement, the provision is intended to replace an existing provision if one exists;
- b) The MLI provision “applies to” or “modifies” an existing provision of a Covered Tax Agreement, the provision of the Convention is intended to change the application of an existing provision without replacing it;
- c) The MLI provision applies “in the absence of” an existing provision of a Covered Tax Agreement if there is no existing provision; or
- d) The MLI provision applies “in place of or in the absence of” an existing provision of a Covered Tax Agreement i.e. the MLI provision either replaces an existing provision or is added to the CTA if there is no existing provision.

In cases of a), b) and c) as described above, the operation of the MLI provision requires the notification by both contracting jurisdictions of the existence (cases a and b) or the absence (case c) of an existing provision. In case d), the MLI provision will apply in all cases regardless of whether there is an existing provision and regardless of the notification made by the contracting jurisdictions. If both contracting jurisdictions notify the existence of a provision, the MLI provision will replace it. If the contracting jurisdictions do not notify the existence of a provision, the MLI provision will be added to the bilateral treaty. In the unlikely event that, in case d), there were to be an existing provision that has not been notified by both contracting jurisdictions, the MLI provision will supersede the existing provision to the extent that the two are incompatible.¹

In case of a notification mismatch, the MLI provision does not apply in cases a), b) and c). In case d), the MLI provision applies and supersedes the existing provision to the extent of incompatibility.
